Four Channel Audio Installation

remember is an immersive audio installation that presents an abstract simulation of dementia using audio to immerse the participants into a forgetful world. Inspired by his experience with his own grandmother suffering from Dementia, Matthew recorded dozens of hours of questions family members had asked her. These questions, combined with ambient recordings of elder care facilities and musical elements comprise everything you hear in remember. This piece serves both as a simulation of what is like to suffer from Dementia, and also poses the question of how we should care for / converse with those who suffer with different types of Alzheimer's.
